Other means than by the present method of compulsory sale to the board.

Redwater Well Swabbed Into Production Friday

THE LAST STRAW Socializing Of U.K. Pubs Is Hinted

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(BP)—The Englishman's last sanctuary—the pub—has been threatened with the threat that it might be nationalized.

The October issue of the Socialist paper, Fabian News, suggested seriously that the British people consider whether the government should take over the pubs, complete with what they sell.

It cited at length the case of Cardiff, where in 1910 the government took over 300 pubs and five breweries because of the "alarming" drunkenness in the city. The profits made in the last three years alone have almost equalled the price originally paid for them, the paper said—despite the fact that half the pubs and four of the breweries had been closed.

The Fabian News suggested that this example be studied with a view to its wider application.

But that isn't all. The Labor Forum, a periodical circulated within the labor party, contained similar views. And Socialist MP John Parker, vice-president of the Fabian Society, has suggested a nationalization program which would call for the serving of tea and coffee in the pubs to attract women customers.

Snare River Hydro Plant Opening Monday

Official opening of the Snare River hydro plant, supplying 8,000 horsepower additional electrical energy to Yellowknife, is being held Monday.

The man who designed and supervised construction of Canada's most northerly hydro project is in Edmonton today. He is W. G. Stuart, resident engineer at Snare River.

Although power surged over the 90-mile transmission lines to Yellowknife several days ago the official opening was deferred until Monday.

J. M. Wardle, Ottawa, director of special projects, Dominion department of Mines and Resources, flew north Friday for the official opening.

Not only will the gold mines in Yellowknife now have great additional sources of power but the town of Yellowknife itself will be well supplied with electricity for the first time.

First of several hydro generating plants the government plans to eventually install for a total output of 15,000 h.p., the newly-completed plant has taken about two years to construct.

Cost of the project is said to be about $4,500,000.

It Happened TODAY

The Military

Defence Minister Brooke Claxton said at Quebec that Canada has made "good progress" in the organization of its post-war army and that officer training has shown particular advances. He said there are 4,000 officers candidates at 22 Canadian universities and men from army ranks are being sent to university.

Commenting on the many reports from the press recently of the "big" success there "in making this summer until later."

The Pacific International Livestock Exposition opened at Portage, with large crowds, and the first of the June flood ravages. Eleven acres are flooded, and the water is high in the states and Canada, agricultural crops, and other displays.

A Boston, Massachusetts, Dr. Tracy B. Mallory, delivering the annual John A. Macgregor memorial lecture at London, Ont., said that jaundice can be spread through blood transfusions. He said that germs of the liver ailment can be transmitted in blood donated by a former jaundice sufferer.

World

Pakistan's prime minister and defence minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, said his government is giving the highest priority to defence expenditure and that it has no intention of "having any aggressive intentions," he said. But if we are attacked we will fight to the last Pakistan.

The Press

The Daily Graphic in London in front page editorial accused Andrei Vishinsky, Russian delegate to the United Nations, of "blatant" when he hinted that the United States might not have a monopoly on the atomic bomb. "The U.S. alone has within her power, a weapon, as Gen. MacNaughton of Canada said, of bringing to an end civilization as we know it," the paper said.

Newspaper owner and multi-millionaire industrialist, Seth Ramanathan Dalmia will fly to the U.S. Monday on a one-man crewed plane for world federal government. He is aiming at 100,000 adherents, establishment of territorial system, allegiance to a single flag, one God, one language and bread, clothing and shelter without discrimination.

The Nation

A pair of the almost extinct whooping cranes were sighted at Kiara river in the extreme northwest corner of Alberta this summer, said a Dominion Wildlife Service official at Ottawa.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Discovery of a new green mineral rich in uranium, the same kind that makes atomic power and bombs, was announced today at Columbia University.

Redwater Well Now Producing

(Continued from Page 1) muddy oil. The entire flow was switched to the flare line and ignited. It soon became apparent that large quantities of water were being in the hole. The flow was killed several times and additional swabbing done to reduce the amount of water left when the drill mud was replaced by oil.

TESTS ARE TURNED BACK

The flow was turned back to the flare line after the test swabbing and to the spectators the mounting flames and thick column of smoke rolling across the countryside were ample proof that Redwater No. 1 is in the state of a new oil field. The well will be given a series of tests lasting for several days before the flow of potential of the well is announced by the discovery company.

After a study of the test results officials will give the new well a series of tests for production until the Petroleum and Natural Gas Corporation Board sets a quota.

Meanwhile no time is being wasted by Imperial Oil in getting the new field. Can-Tex Drilling Company is rigging up on a local five mile oil field. The discovery, General Petroleum is reported to be making out another location to the south. Neither of the new locations has been announced by Imperial Oil officials.

Tories Will Name New Leader Today

(Continued from Page 1) tuesday of Grey North, withdrew from the leadership race shortly before nominations closed. He said he did not wish to be the advice of friends.

Observers say Mr. Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker appear to have the best chances for the leadership which John Bracken, 65, told the press Thursday his decision was based on his age and ill health.

TODAY'S RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions to be considered today touch on housing, the cost of living, labor, national defense, foreign affairs, equality for women, natural resources, immigration, gold mining and mineral resources, transportation and freight rates, the trans-Canada highway, radio, legal and penal reforms, a national flag, the retention of provinces, economy, supremacy of parliament and establishment of a national library.

The resolution on Communism, passed yesterday after about an hour's debate, mentioned no names. It simply advocated that "Communist activities" be outlawed and set up in the air the question of whether the Progressive Conservative, if elected to power, would ban the Labor-Progressive party.

The party's statement on Russian aggression was more definite. "The present policies of the Russian bloc of nations, with their imperialistic aims and unilateral actions, are leading the world toward war and, therefore, Canada should not follow any policy of appeasement in the face of aggression."

The Dominion should be "firm in its resistance thereto and follow a consistent foreign policy of friendly relations which will involve confidence at home and understanding abroad."

Also advocated in the foreign policy resolution is a strengthening of connections with other British commonwealth nations, continued strong support of the United Nations and the defensive union of western European countries, and ever-closer relations with the United States and France.

Other platform planks adopted yesterday:

1. A statement of "unwavering loyalty" to the King.

2. A reaffirmation of belief in free, competitive enterprise, with proper restraints against monopoly and unfair competition.

3. A new call for an "immediate" Dominion-Provincial conference aimed at "restoration of provincial rights, elimination of double taxation, more equitable distribution of taxation among the Dominion, the provinces and municipalities."

4. A statement of opposition to Socialism and encouragement of industry and financial institutions "which provide so much of the taxes necessary for social-security measures."

5. A criticism of foreign exchange controls and a suggestion that international monetary fund regulations be modified.

TAX EXEMPTIONS

6. A pledge to increase personal income tax exemption to at least $2,500 for married persons and to $1,500 for single persons, to boost the exemption for dependent children from $1,000, to lower the general income-tax rate.

7. A proposal for a contributory social security program including payments at 60 without means tests, accident, sickness and disability benefits, health insurance, extended unemployment and insurance benefits; similar benefits for "unemployables" on a non-contributory basis.

THIEF STEALS ELABORATE TRIFLE ALARM

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Hans E. Finner rigged up a complicated burglar booty trap in his room. He used a system of photo-graphic bulbs, wiring, a radio and an electric clock. They flashed when anyone opened his dresser drawer. He also smeared the drawers with a mixture of oil and kerosene to make them slippery and to make it difficult to open them. He had entered his room and found it empty. He had entered his room and found it empty. He had entered his room and found it empty.

Central Manitoba Farms Threatened By Forest Fires

RIVINGTON, Man., Oct. 2.—(CP)—A fire in a forest here threatened today when the worst of the forest fires now raging in north-central Manitoba jumped a gap of unpopulated land and became uncontrollable.

Residents of the Howardsville area said last night the situation "looked bad," especially for Chris Johnston, a farmer who has a quarter section about 450 acres from the main blaze.

Fire combat measures, meanwhile, were continuing without abatement, with bulldozers cutting deep trenches in forests to stem advance of the flames.

'Lucky' Luciano In News Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Approximately 800,000 words of heroin yesterday was removed from the Italian liner Vulcania by customs men. Harry M. Dunning, collector of customs, told a press conference he believed Charles "Lucky" Luciano, deported vice racketeer, is involved. Luciano was deported to Italy several years ago.

U.S. Debating Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(BUP)—A far-reaching top level debate is underway within the administration over proposed lend-lease of military equipment to today a western European military alliance, informants at quarters said.

If advocates of the lend-lease program win out, the proposal probably will be presented to congress next spring. The Chinese must come first. They are.

1. To western European military alliance must complete its organization. The alliance is complete.

2. The alliance must decide what it needs, what it can make itself in the way of arms, and what it must ask the United States to produce.

The president and the national security council must decide whether the military aid is for the best security interests of the United States.

Informed quarters are certain that the new alliance will ask the United States for lend-lease military aid. But how much will be forthcoming will depend on the administration and congress.

Red Feather Drive Set To Open In City Monday

Plans for the eighth annual drive of the Edmonton Community Chest received the finishing touches at an organization meeting of 85 Life Underwriters and managers Friday.

Campaign to raise $148,500 for distribution among 27 member fed.

Feather services maintained by the Chest, opens next Monday when active canvassing will commence.

Friday's organization meeting was arranged by L. H. Nichols, chairman of the industrial community division and Jack Holton, president, and Jerry Willis, organizer of the Life Underwriters' teams.

COMPLIMENTS William C. Bruce, general chairman of the campaign committee, complimented underwriters for again volunteering their services for two weeks.

Edward W. Stubbards, executive secretary of the Chest, said contributors have been asked to increase donations this year by a minimum of 10 per cent.

Increased population of Edmonton and increased costs of all commodities purchased has made larger contributions absolutely necessary, Mr. Stubbards pointed out.

He said this was readily understood by business firms in the city.

All member agencies have pledged they will make no other apportionment of funds during the year for maintenance purposes.

A downtown office has been opened in the Tourist Bureau of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce in the Provincial Building.

Members of the Edmonton Exhibition Association and Officials of the Flyers Hockey Club were lauded by Chairman Bruce for offering net proceeds of an exhibition game at the Arena on Saturday, Oct. 9, between Flyers and Kimberley Dynamos.

Accident is Verdict In Automobile Death

Driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured an elderly pedestrian at 101 street and 106 avenue September 25 was freed of blame by a coroner's jury inquiring Friday into the death of 70-year-old C. D. McPherson of Edmonton.

Exonerated by the verdict of a coroner's jury was Clarence Henry Hardie, 1428 115 street. Charge of dangerous driving entered against Hardie as a formality was dropped by police.

Evidence of a surprise witness at the inquest indicated that McPherson's life might have been saved if his request for help in crossing the street had been heeded.

Mr. Justice J. Shepherd will preside. Thirty cases are listed on the docket for hearing at the sittings of the court.

Included in the list is a charge of murder against Mike Zacharek for the death of William Zacharek in the Spalden district.

Two cases of manslaughter will be heard, seven of theft, eight involving sex offences, two of poisoning.

Others listed include charges of perjury, false pretences, larceny, failure to provide, causing bodily harm and breaking and entry.

Hearings will be held in the Edmonton Court House.

Christening Of 'Hey You' Draws Nigh

Well, what do you know?—here it is Oct. 2 already—and only six weeks until I'll have an honest-to-godness-relatively nine-month-old baby.

It's appropriate, catchy and easy for a lot of you wonderful people have sent in names which you hope will qualify you for some of the $200 being offered by the boys for naming me, but I'd like to see a lot more suggestions come in—your name, the more, the merrier name I'll get.

To give you folks a better idea as to my appearance, the chief has even had my portrait painted in a life-size reality and today it holds a prominent spot in the front office.

After all these years of anonymity (say that's a real four-letter word, isn't it?), of just being referred to as "they," it makes a fellow feel kinda important to have as many people trying to give him a suitable cognomen (another "four-letter" word).

The "board of strategists" with whom the boss will judge the winning "handle" have been opening the letters as they come in and from the frequent chucking some of the suggested names must be pretty good.

After all, I've inserted a Want Ad in The Bulletin claiming that you will automatically have your award doled out should you emerge with the winning name.

And, I haven't sent in a name for me yet, and would like to know a little more about this very momentous contest. Look back in the classified section for the rules and regulations—then sit down and get your imagination working...

...This is a case of man's inhumanity to man, and nothing can be done about it.

Need for U.S. Capital Stressed by Tanner

Need to encourage American capital to develop Alberta's oil resources was stressed by Hon. N. E. Tanner, provincial mines minister when he addressed the Property Owners' Association of Edmonton Friday at the Public Library.

In spite of production at Leduc and Turner Valley and possibilities of oil development at Redwater, Canada must still import 90 per cent of her petroleum products, he said.

By encouraging the flow of American capital to Alberta, new money is put into circulation and an eventual increase in purchasing power results, he explained.

He did not endorse monopoly, the minister said. Present regulations allow a group to own with a small bank account may buy a quarter section of oil land, the minister said, explaining that of two government-controlled towns.

Land controlled by the government is available to small buyers and drillers.

Mr. Tanner emphasized Alberta's responsibility of developing oil resources to insure maximum benefits and returns without taking from future generations.

He warned against doing with Alberta's oil what had been done with Quebec and Ontario's timber—indiscriminate use with resultant waste and depletion of natural resources.

Hotel Extension Is Vital

Calling the decision of the CNR against present extension of the Macdonald Hotel as "flagrant piece of bad faith," the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce announces its purpose of getting into the fight for additional hotel accommodation with both feet.

It is possible the Chamber of Commerce may have greater success along this line than Mayor Ainlay has had.

It is possible, too, that Mayor Ainlay allowed under optimism to interpret the result of his conversations with CNR officials.

Certainly the very vagueness of the proposals announced by the CNR to the public on two occasions should have indicated that negotiations had not got into the stage of detail.

The extension to the Macdonald Hotel as announced by the mayor, was to comprise between 150 and 300 rooms. That is a pretty wide spread. Surely if the CNR contemplated any early action on an addition to the hotel, its officials would have known whether 150 or 300 rooms would be added.

But whether or not Mayor Ainlay jumped to conclusions for the sake of making a happy announcement to Edmonton people, the fact remains that the CNR was well aware that such announcements had been made and that the city of Edmonton had actually purchased part of the property essential to the projected deal.

In that sense the Chamber of Commerce is well justified in referring to the CNR's position as one of "bad faith."

But calling the railway company names is not the way to secure the hotel accommodation Edmonton needs so badly. The CNR has a tremendous stake in Edmonton and Edmonton's future. Surely the Chamber of Commerce, speaking as business men to business men, can convince the CNR that the immediate extension of the Macdonald Hotel is not only a moral obligation but an obviously certain way for the railway company to secure those extra revenues it claims it needs so badly.

recreation are to continue and if ample space is to be available where young Edmonton can learn to swim.

A knowledge of swimming and water safety is essential to the education of every child. It is the only way of reducing the death toll from drowning that is run up at Edmonton resorts every year.

More pools are needed at once.

More Swimming Pools Needed

The three public swimming pools in Edmonton accommodated 188,000 persons this year in spite of the polyomelitis ban that shortened the season.

This is almost full capacity attendance. It indicates that more pools will have to be provided almost immediately if full opportunities for this healthful outdoor

Simplified Income Tax Forms

Canadian taxpayers will hail with unrestrained delight the announcement from Ottawa that new income tax return forms are being prepared that will be both brief and simple.

It is just about time. Any form of taxation, however necessary, is painful enough without calling for cerebral exercise far above the capacity of the average man.

It is true that a certain amount of computation is necessary in computing any tax. But why any form should involve obscure terms and go into long-winded threats about what will happen to a taxpayer should he make a slip, is beyond the comprehension of any mortal.

It has been said that anything that makes sense can be made simple. As far as that goes, the highwayman has reduced his calling to the utmost simplicity. He accomplishes exactly what the income tax accomplishes and he does it in two curt words.

Surely what the smooth highwayman does well is done by the income tax department even better.

'Forgiving One Another'

In the fourth chapter of his letter to the Ephesians, St. Paul sets forth certain instructions for those who intend to lead the Christian life.

He closes his exhortation with these significant words: "And be ye kind to one another, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven you."

The importance of ready forgiveness among men cannot possibly be over-stressed.

The ancient grudges of Europe have blotted history with three thousand years of war.

And grudges between individuals are the cause of most of the unhappiness in communities and a great deal of the unhappiness in families.

There is no profit or no comfort in carrying a grudge.

Hatred and ill-feeling and resentment impose a handicap upon those towards whom they are directed. But they impose an even greater evil upon those in whose hearts they lie so heavily.

The heart that harbors a grudge is a sad heart. For grudges crowd out the capacity for happiness.

The relief consequent upon forgiving is a great as the relief consequent upon being forgiven.

And the two are tied together. For, as St. Paul says, we should forgive one another because God, for Christ's sake, has forgiven us.

Forgiveness is one of the highest arts of the Christian soul.

Wild Marriage Rumors Berk Buckingham Palace

Perilous rumors that link the name of Princess Margaret with that of the young Marquess of Blandford are said to be playing the very devil with the sensibilities of some of the rammed officials in Buckingham Palace who are more royal than the King, you may say.

Certain of these outraged officials are reported to have stated, flatly, damn their long Park Lane noses and long complaint-bills, that they would be the first to see the King if he were to be married to a commoner.

For instance, Lord Staffordham, for instance, secretary to the King, who would die to avoid the tradition that caused his ancestor to be executed, would be the first to see the King if he were to be married to a commoner.

He had a terrible taste with Lord Beaverbrook, who insisted on preferring his report in type because, as he said, he was too tired to write it.

The dispute ended, I understand, when the King in his lovely, gracious, and unassuming way, instructed Staffordham not to "blatney fool."

Affectionate Speculation

Well, there is something of the same kind going on with regard to the alleged love affair of the Princess Margaret.

Smiles

A man and a woman were talking about letter-writing. "Ah," said the man, "you women have a way of writing letters without ever getting to the point."

"You mean," she replied, "I will write one to you and let you see?"

"I will write one to you and let you see?"

"I will write one to you and let you see?"

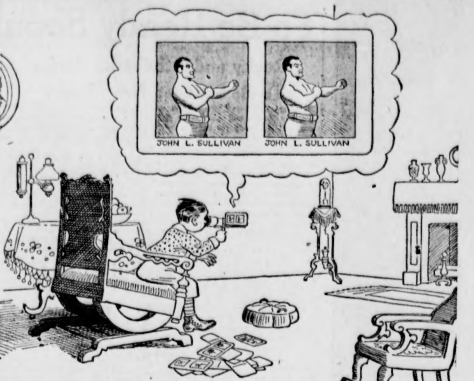

"I will write one to you and let you see?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Standing Room Only
Editor, Bulletin. — From the midst of a crowd of people standing in one of the city's trolley buses a voice cried out with an idea which may solve our problem, or at least relieve some of the discomfort.

The wanderer who spoke had recently returned from Australia. In that enlightened country, if you have to stand in a bus you don't have to pay. This brilliant idea must certainly lead to better travelling comfort.

When a company turns a perfectly good bus service into the flaccid trolley buses are today, surely a penalty is not too much. What do you fellow-sufferers think?

Housing Campaign

Community Chest Drive
Editor, Bulletin. — The annual appeal of the Community Chest of Edmonton comes to all as a reminder both of our civic and our Christian duty.

By this means the people of Edmonton support twenty-seven welfare organizations which provide highly necessary services to our midst. These services which all right-minded people wish to have without and without which our community life would be infinitely poorer.

This campaign for funds offers everyone an opportunity to contribute to the maintenance of organizations which benefit us all. And it makes this further appeal to us, that, by our giving, we should make ourselves one to a common enterprise with the public-spirited people who give their time to collect and administer the funds.

Inasmuch as these welfare organizations represent the Christian spirit at work and exist to serve all without respect to class or creed, this appeal is to be commended.

Modern Reticence
I have seen less patience with those insufferable sticks who would loudly that we should not carry a grudge. I have seen without a grudge. I have seen without a grudge.

Conflict
Editor, Bulletin. — In the view of Foreign Secretary, Mr. Bevin, words about the very real danger of war, it seems to me that the common people might be led to do more to avoid catastrophe than all the statesmen. Let us not despair until we have tried every conceivable method to assure peace. Towards this end, I should like to make a suggestion.

Someone once said, "Never underestimate the power of a woman." If that be so, the power of united women should be something to be reckoned with. I often say, "If only there were something I could do." Well, we can. If we only succeed in penetrating behind the curtain, we could at least give our fellow citizens a little more to be the thin edge of a wedge.

Canada Foolish To Sell Gold At American Price

DAWSON CITY, Yukon. — The Canadian Pacific mail ship, the Wilemoot, left Dawson City at 10 o'clock. The air is brisk. You are as glad as you can be to see the new concrete job in front of the waiting room is really spreading. The men on this job really put their hearts as well as their backs into it. Nobody seems to be leaning on a shovel.

The place is a Dakota. It has its full load of about 200 passengers, plus all sorts of freight for the silver and lead mines at Mayo. There is even a side of beef aboard.

The triple decker hand skipper of the ship is Roy Macfie, a steady, with ruddy, weathered face, a copilot is Jack Chambers, wary-haired, keen-faced and laughing eyes. He is a real wit.

This is a heman's country. No newsmen are carried. All the passengers on the plane, except me, are miners. They have their big boxes with them. Mr. Connell of Toronto, who came back, introduces him self and chats with me in a friendly, informal way.

My mate is a sturdy, unemotional miner. I imagine of the extra money he has been working at Sheep Creek but prefers the far north for the winter. He is the copilot, a regular reader of this column.

Bumpy Flight
It is a bit bumpy. But as I have twice survived the Montreal-Halifax trip, where the plane was a real bumpy, the equally air fly bronzes at a role, this Dawson City flight seems no more than a breeze. We make a smooth landing on the field, and the plane is in the air.

Then I witness the smartest unloading technique I have yet seen. With the copilot and myself, we take the baggage and pass it out to the passengers. They pass out about 30 items of baggage before you could say "Altogether." The plane is empty, and the passengers are in the air.

These pictures of giant size here ladies would make a nice little album. They are the work of the Dawson City artists in our Canadian Group of seven are so fond. If we must have subjects, they will be the pictures of Dawson City. Each man passes the pictures through his own lens, exactly as the centre drive in Canadian football. But in the case of the picture, the centre drive is the picture.

Goering Certain His End Was Near

Remarks Pointed Clearly To Spectacular Death

This concludes the series of 12 articles in which Goering's defence lawyer of Nuremberg has reported, in Goering's own words, the No. 2 Nazi inside story of many decisive events. Today the author explains the words of a man who knew in advance he would never have another chance to utter them.—EDITOR.

Shadow of Death

The American correspondents at the Nuremberg trial were forever taking pills among their number. After the defendants had finished making their statements they voted again on the options as to the probable verdicts.

Against the name of each defendant, the correspondents indicated whether they thought the verdict would be guilty or not guilty, and in case of guilt, whether they expected the sentence to be imprisonment or death.

Thirty-two correspondents voted. Thirty-two of them said Goering would be found guilty. Thirty-two said he would be sentenced to death.

"Perhaps it had been better if I had shot myself in August, 1945," he said grimly. "There is no sense left in believing I am alone here."

How deeply he believed that, he showed a little later when he looked at this period, as soon as he should give up their "viciousness" have put on the record whatever he trips to the front which were made to say. All the top Nazi leaders were accused to carrying out of the hands of the conspirators. He had disappeared forever. "Other in extreme danger. Perhaps they will have spoken to me too well from their own practice on others, how slow and agonizing death could be made, to deprive themselves of the possibility of making it swift and merciful."

Indeed Goering had told me that once before he had been on the verge of taking his own life.

"In the spring of 1945 when the Russians crossed the Oder," he said, "I made a number of trips to the front to strengthen the morale of the front-line soldiers. Once we were overtaken by darkness, and my staff and I were offhandedly taken to the rear."

He escaped capture so narrowly that I already had in my hand the pistol which I always carried. "After all, it's my life at stake here!"

"The Fuehrer said to me that I should give up their 'viciousness' have put on the record whatever he trips to the front which were made to say. All the top Nazi leaders were accused to carrying out of the hands of the conspirators. He had disappeared forever. "Other in extreme danger. Perhaps they will have spoken to me too well from their own practice on others, how slow and agonizing death could be made, to deprive themselves of the possibility of making it swift and merciful."

That he considered to be already settled. We have here, therefore, the last words of a man living in the shadow of death, the words of a man who knew it. He would never have another chance to rectify or revise them.

That he would be sentenced to death was his opinion even before he was hauled at Nuremberg. On the way to prison he had told his comrades to take their last look at Germany, they would never see it again. That opinion was strengthened shortly afterwards by a "marked" made to him by an American psychologist officially attached to the Nuremberg tribunal, which sank deep into Goering's consciousness and which Goering once took back at him.

During a pause in the trial, Goering got into an argument with the psychologist, whom he always addressed bawlingly as "Little Jesus." Goering declared that the whole business wasn't a real trial, that it was just window-dressing. The psychologist denied it, but Goering flashed back, "why you told me at the very beginning that the only question for me was whether I would be shot or hanged."

Having accepted this, he was able on occasion even to joke about it grimly. One day he remarked:

"They're terribly worried here about our health and well-being. If there's anything at all the matter with me, the doctor arrives on the double quick and takes such devoted care of me that it's really quite touching. They want to lead me to slaughter in the pink of condition."

Sometimes his conviction showed itself in impatience at others who failed to understand the situation. I was with Goering in the interview room of the prison once when Dr. Hoff, who had just finished talking with his lawyer, was led back to his cell, passing behind Goering's back. Goering nodded to him and then said to me:

DISILLUSIONS HESS

"Hess is a strange fellow. He refuses to name any witnesses and makes difficulties for his own counsel. He wants to give his explanation and justification to the German people—and he thinks 'the time for him to do that is after he has been released from prison' and is again a minister in a new German government! I've tried to make it clear to him that he can hardly count on getting out of this. I tried to convince him that it is better to make any declaration he had better make it before this court because as I said to him" (and here Goering laughed bitterly) "Verily, Rudolf, I say unto you, this very day you will be with me in heaven."

Goering disclaimed crawling before the court. His defence was the defence of the Nazi regime, not a defense of Hermann Goering, a statement for posterity, not a declaration for this court. Only once did I know him to falter in that attitude, perhaps because he did not relish my throwing his own words back at him.

We had been discussing the charges that captured Allied flyers had been killed, contrary to the convention governing the treatment of prisoners of war and Goering had denied personal knowledge of or responsibility for such measures.

"After all," he said, "it's not the duty of the supreme commander of the German Luftwaffe to deal personally with the thousands of reports reaching local air com-of these remarks of Goering's pointed clearly towards his final spectacular death. He was to die as he had lived, sensationally. Yet I did not realize the implications in his gloomy prophetic remarks during my final interview with him. We had been discussing Germany's political and economic situation, and I had spoken pessimistically of the hopelessness of her situation. Goering, who usually smiled at the Reich would achieve renewed greatness, this time rose in his seat and ended our talk with these words:

"It is really best for me to make my exit, for life in Germany no longer has anything to offer. All is finished!"

He threw his coat over his shoulders, put on his field cap, and disappeared with slow, dragging steps down the corridor which led to his cell.

That was the last time I ever saw Herman Goering alive.

PODUNK (no kidding), Mass., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Resident of Podunk have determined to let the world know (1) there really is such a community and (2) that it is a nice place to live and has modern improvements.

Because mapmakers have neglected Podunk and newspaper men have handled the name about in a jocular manner, folks here have decided to hold their peace no longer.

President Robert S. Wakeman of the Podunk Community Club reported today that plans are ready to be made to include live mapmakers and newspaper men to a sightseeing tour and a dinner.

Robbery Victim Now Threatened

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Sonja Lowy, who had $15,000 worth of jewels stolen and recovered in a little more than 24 hours, has received a threatening letter as saying: "I told you not to tell the police. You'll be buried six feet under."

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Oct. 2.—(CP)—Charles Wambles, 30, pioneer farmer and rancher of the Podunk Community Club, southern Alberta, died in hospital yesterday. Native of Belgium, he had been in the High River district since 1904 and was a successful breeder of Hereford cattle until retiring four years ago.

Opposition Asks Govt. Resignation

TOKYO, Oct. 2.—(CP)—Three opposition parties yesterday demanded that Japan's coalition cabinet resign because of allegations of ministerial complicity in a 2,800,000 yen ($400,000) milk market deal.

The cabinet planned to meet today to decide whether to appoint a successor to Takeo Kuraishi, former finance minister arrested Thursday on suspicion of taking a bribe in the Deutscher Milch Company case.

About 30 bankers, industrialists and politicians already have been arrested. Kuraishi is the first Japanese of cabinet rank to be held.

The Diet had proposed to investigate a loan of 2,800,000 yen by the Reconstruction Finance Bank to the fertilizer company. The inquiry was called off and various officials were accused of having a hand in hushup of the investigations.

LONDON.—(CP)—Firmen, hurriedly answering a call to a British district theatre, found a refrigerator on fire.

Who puts comforting arms around small scared shoulders—who feeds hungry mouths and puts new hope and courage in hungry young hearts?

WHO?—You know—YOU, by your generous donation to the COMMUNITY CHEST.

Here are just some of the many services which your contribution to the Community Chest helped to make possible:

284 neglected boys and girls were cared for during the past year.

Over 7,000 home nursing visits were arranged through the Chest.

1,700 individual families received guidance and help.

So, give more than you planned, won't you?—when the volunteer Chest worker calls on you.

$148,500

is the campaign objective

OPENING MONDAY

OCTOBER 4th To 16th

CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS

Provincial Building—101A Ave.

435 underprivileged boys and girls were given a holiday through various Red Feather Chest services.

1,500 Boy Scouts and 1,100 Girl Guides received training.

264 babies born to unmarried mothers received care and a chance for their future.

Many hundreds of Edmonton boys and girls received healthful, wholesome recreation through the Y.M.C.A.—Y.W.C.A.—Tuxis and Girl Guide Groups, all of which are Red Feather Services.

WORTHWHILE? and what a challenge for all who can to give their needed financial support. The work must go on, in ever increasing scope.

Remember—our pledge covers many Red Feather services. Because we have a well-managed Community Chest making many appeals, you are called on only once a year for all of them. So when you give, GIVE ENOUGH... enough for ALL Red Feather services... enough for a FULL year.

Everybody benefits... Everybody gives

Three Faiths Get Bequests

NEW YORK.—Dr. Otto Sussman, late chairman of the American Metal Company, Ltd., who died here Feb. 3, 1947, left $75,000 to 13 Protestant and nine Catholic charitable organizations, and to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, it was announced by the executor of the estate.

Dr. Sussman, who left a gross estate valued at $5,000,000, assigned five per cent of his residuary estate, which was estimated at $2,500,000 to each of the three religious groups.

He declared in his will that he did not believe in "charity based on creed," and specified that the three were to be treated alike. Designation of the organizations was left to the executor.

Teachers Get New Pension Proposition

Proposals for a new pension scheme for teachers in Alberta were outlined today at the morning session of the 23rd annual convention of Edmonton city teachers.

Eric C. Anley, general secretary-treasurer of Alberta Teachers Association, said that the new scheme which the ATA executive has drawn up is the "best offered teachers anywhere in Canada."

Mr. Anley said the proposals are now before the provincial government for approval.

He said providing the agreement is made, pensions for retiring teachers will be based on the average salary for a five-year period when a teacher's salary would be highest. In the past, the secretary said, pensions have been based on salaries during the last five years of service.

Pension would be 32 1/2 per cent of average salary for the five-year period.

The new pension scheme also provides insurance benefits for dependents of teachers in case of death and a disability fund.

The plan also allows a teacher who reaches the age of 65 and is eligible to draw a pension to select one of several schemes, depending on what his position at the time might be.

It also allows a teacher with 35 years experience to retire before the age of 65 and start drawing a pension immediately.

Only other speaker at the morning session, held in the auditorium of Education building at University of Alberta was, D. Evanson, a representative of department of education.

On Sunday, Oct. 10 members of the Beth Shalom will participate in the congregational pilgrimage to ancestral graves. A brief service will be held at the cemetery chapel and will be followed by El-Mohel prayers at the respective graves.

Such holiday services will be observed beginning Oct. 17 and will continue until Oct. 26.

Pupils of Beth Shalom will participate at 11 a.m. Oct. 17 for the ceremony of dedicating the Beth Shalom Succah.

Mr. Kinsman said teachers should always keep in mind three general objectives—occupational preparation, civic confidence and personal development.

O. A. Brown Refutes Farmers' Union Release

Despite a shortage of stock cars, city stockyards are not glutted, nor is there any possibility of the imposition of an embargo to halt further livestock shipments to the city.

This statement, in refutation of a Thursday news release by the Alberta Farmers' Union, was made Friday by Omer A. Brown, vice-president of the Edmonton Livestock Exchange.

Turning the earlier report to be "false propaganda which could be harmful to one of Alberta's most important industries," Mr. Brown said the situation is "no worse" than other years.

"The present predicament is not acute," he said, "during the past five or six years we have gone through worse times than this without imposing embargoes."

PENS EMPTY

Pointing out the empty pens Friday, he said, "There is the evidence that disproves any wild statements."

The ELX official said the yards had been filled to capacity at the beginning of the week but the arrival Wednesday of sufficient stock cars had "cleared out" the surplus.

"I question," he said, "whether there would be any surplus if the yards could hold the surplus."

"There is already a shortage of hog, and a possibility that in two weeks there will be insufficient supply to keep up with the packing house work."

Any glut that did occur was unobtainable but unavoidable said Mr. Brown. The railway companies are doing their best, but because of heavy commitments at this time of the year plus winter depletion of their rolling stock, they are unable to supply more cars.

He concluded that if an embargo were imposed, the authority for such a move would lie solely with the commission men and the stockyards.

BEING CONSTANTINE SOUTO in free Canada is a million miles ahead of being political prisoner Prince Souto in iron-curtained Romania. Prince Souto, with his step-daughter Ioana Glica, are now in Edmonton. He hopes to purchase improved farm lands in this district and become a Canadian citizen.

Prince Trades Title For Mr. and Freedom

Esau traded his birthright for a mess of pottage because he was hungry. Prince Constantine Souto from Romania is gladly swapping his title because he hungers for the freedom of Canada.

Registered as plain Constantine Souto at an Edmonton hotel, the former Romanian nobleman hopes to purchase improved farm lands in Central Alberta. He also hopes with a fervent hope to become a Canadian citizen within the next five years.

Because he was not a Communist, Prince Souto had practically all of his farm lands in Romania confiscated.

He fled the country some months ago after one and one half years of unsuccessful striving to leave legally.

With him in Edmonton now is his wife and one stepdaughter, Ioana Glica. His mother and a four-year-old son, Alexander, are staying temporarily with friends in Vancouver.

Another stepdaughter, Irene, is completing her education in Paris. Ioana Glica, who is with the Prince in Edmonton, has applied for enrolment at the Glida Agricultural School.

THERE'LL BE A PECK O' PICKLES HERE
HOT, SPICY AROMA of pickles fills the kitchen of Mrs. Don Stanley as she prepares another batch of green tomato goodies. Leisurely days of summer time are over and with a great deal of hustling and bustling women all over the country are getting ready for winter months. And what better preparation for winter is there than a food cellar chock full of pickles 'n things?

FRUITS OF OUR LABORED EFFORTS
TREMENDOUS BUDGET SAVERS are the beautiful fresh vegetables you've so painstakingly nurtured in that backyard plot. Jack Frost, bless his cold, icy heart, has announced his arrival and with this everyone is busy taking the vegetables away from the threat of frost. Mrs. Fred Phelps is pleased as punch with the crisp, bright carrots grown in her garden this year.

WOMEN TODAY

Dolores Kimball, Editor

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Saturday, October 2, 1948 15

Bulletin Staff Photographer

Guess what's that around the corner . . . Winter.
Ughhhh . . . cold weather, children stay inside, so many more coats 'n shoes 'n overshoes 'n hats 'n scarves 'n everything to be bothered with.

But even before winter puts its rosy cheeked little face inside the threshold . . . there are a million and one things Mrs. Average Housewife must do.

But then on the bright side of the picture . . . think of all the fun you can have in winter time. There's Christmas 'n New Years, skating, skiing, sleigh-riding . . . a barrel of fun to be had.

Besides after the winter . . . we have the delight of spring to look forward to.

WOMEN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE . . . IS IT?
GAMBOLING ABOUT in the crisp autumn air is much more fun than work like raking leaves . . . but it must be done at this time of the year. Mrs. John McMillen even enjoys raking grass and leaves to see the air in as clear and fresh as it is these days. The seasons slip by, summer pastels deepening into the rich-lured autumn coats of the trees. But that nasty old winter isn't far off.

LAST YEAR'S WINTER WARDROBE NEEDS CARE

WINTER WOOLENS must be sorted and aired in preparation for the chilling days ahead. Mrs. J. M. Lee busies herself these days checking the family's wardrobe for halting, mending, airing and pressing. September and October are busy months with fall housecleaning added to all the other little tasks. Mrs. Housewife really has to organize her time to get everything done

WHO SAID WOMEN ARE HELPLESS?

AFTER THE POLISHING there comes the rest of the job . . . and Mrs. Lawrence Collins manages those great big windows just as easily as she smiles her radiant smile. Poor dear husbands are often much too busy . . . are something . . . and many times gets around to bracing the vine-covered cottage against the bitter breath of winter . . . the blues.

Carelessness Causes 80 Per Cent of Fires

Fire Prevention week in Edmonton will be observed from Oct. 3 to 9.

During this period local fire officials and civic authorities will endeavor to impress upon the people the importance of fire prevention.

Carelessness, according to Edmonton Fire Chief James MacGregor, is responsible for 80 per cent of all fires.

"A real fire demon" according to the fire chief, "is the person who carelessly flicks an ignited cigarette butt into a wastepaper basket—don't check the match he has used before it is thrown away, or who lights a smoke while he reads in bed."

This individual, adds the fire chief, "is the person who causes most fires."

Ten or better carelessness was responsible for more than 25 per cent of the Alberta fires in 1947. It cost the people of Edmonton an adjusted loss of more than $100,000 during the year.

COSTLY FIRES

Fires during the past eight years have been costly to Edmontonians, the loss amounting to more than three million dollars.

The following is a comparative tabulation showing fire calls and adjusted losses for the past eight years in the City of Edmonton.

Adjusted Per Capita	Year	Fires	Loss
1940	68	212	$1,028,000
1941	68	212	$1,028,000
1942	68	212	$1,028,000
1943	68	212	$1,028,000
1944	68	212	$1,028,000
1945	68	212	$1,028,000
1946	68	212	$1,028,000
1947	68	212	$1,028,000
1948	68	212	$1,028,000

It's Fall now... and that brings new risks of fire, through the cigarettes thrown into unattended places; through use of faulty heating and electric equipment. Don't let your carelessness start a fire. Be protected against all fire hazards. We will provide fire insurance plan.

Fire and civic officials agree that this loss can be cut in half if 100 per cent co-operation is received from the citizens of Edmonton.

SAFETY RULES

Fire causes to homes would be reduced from 60 to 70 per cent if the following precautions were followed:

1. Properly installed heating plants, stoves etc., adequately safeguarded.
2. Properly constructed chimneys.
3. Careful watch over cigarette butts and discarded matches.
4. Sound and adequate wiring.

No one knows when or where fire will break out, so it is essential that everyone should know what to do in case of a fire.

Public instruction is to be given the following vital information:

1. Location of your nearest fire alarm box.
2. Method of sending in alarm from the box.
3. Your fire department telephone number—Phone 100.

Unless a fire can be put out immediately, don't waste valuable time trying to fight it. Call your fire department FIRST, then return and try to put the fire out or prevent it from spreading.

Fire Marshal Jack South, on behalf of the fire prevention committee of the Edmonton Fire department earnestly asks your continued co-operation in PREVENTING FIRES—not only during Fire Prevention week, but throughout the year.

REMEMBER, it is only by constant watchfulness and check-up of our homes and places of business that we can hope to keep down the tremendous losses which happen year after year.

Thyssen Is Convicted As Nazi Supporter

KOENIGSTEIN, Germany, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Fritz Thyssen, former Ruhr steel magnate, was convicted today as a "minor Nazi" by a German denazification court.

The defendant, 73, was ordered to turn 15 per cent of his "available property in Germany" into a restitution fund for victims of Nazi persecution.

Thyssen was accused of having supported Hitler as far back as 1933, allegedly having made substantial contributions to Nazi party funds.

The court said the value of Thyssen's property in Germany could not be determined immediately during the trial. Thyssen contended he was the "poorest man in Germany" and was supported by friends.

Atom Bomb Shows Need for Peace

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Dr. H. A. Milikan, Nobel award recipient, said yesterday the atomic bomb's greatest service to date has been to crystallize the need for world peace. He spoke with pessimism to the Institute of Radio Engineers about the future work of atomic energy.

Youngsters Cut Off Power Supply

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—(CP)—Suburban East York had its power cut for two hours last night—but it had nothing to do with the power shortage. Police said they believed the interruption was caused by mischievous youngsters who cut a feeder line in the Don Valley.

Open Market For Gold Approved By Tories

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—(CP)—The Progressive Conservative national convention today went on record in favor of an open market for newly-produced gold.

The amendment, sponsored by Andrew Adamson, member of the commons for York West, urged that Canadian gold producers be allowed to sell newly-produced gold in any market. All gold now must be sold to the Canadian government for $35 an ounce.

The amendment was to a resolution which urged the establishment of a free market for gold. It also urged steps be taken to have the Bretton Woods agreement altered to make establishment of the free gold market possible.

As originally drafted, the resolution recommended that until a free market is established the Canadian government buy gold at a price comparable to the increased price which has occurred in respect to other commodities.

In moving his amendment, Mr. Adamson said that adoption of the resolution in its original form would signify the party's support of a subsidy for the gold mining industry.

Boy Crash Victim Improves Steadily

Eleven-year-old Michael Linnar, critically injured in a north plane crash last Monday, continues to show improvement in his condition.

"He slept well last night and seems in good shape this morning," Lt.-Col. A. L. Linnar, his father, told The Bulletin today.

Mother of the injured lad was killed in the crash of the Stinson plane she was piloting from Anchorage, Alaska, to the United States.

Col. Linnar, who has scarcely left the side of his injured son since he arrived in Edmonton from the north Wednesday night, said this morning he will not leave for the United States "until the boy is ready to travel."

Funeral of Mrs. Linnar will be delayed until the child has recovered, Col. Linnar said.

She is to be buried in Norman, Kansas, where she was born. The Linnar boy suffered a fractured skull, broken right arm and front-bitten feet.

Weakness is the most valuable of Albin's timbers.

GANGSTERS!

SEVERAL of the Teenie Weenie men were standing outside the kitchen door waiting for their breakfast when they heard the honk of geese. As they looked up into the sky, they saw a great flock of wild geese flying South.

"Looks like Winter will soon be here," remarked the Old Soldier with a wooden leg.

"Yes, and it will be here without firewood if you fellows don't get busy soon," put in the Cook from the kitchen door, where he was busy beating pancake batter in a hazel nut shell mixing bowl. "There's only enough stove wood to last a few days."

"That's right," answered the Old Soldier. "We'll get some wood just as soon as we have finished breakfast."

As soon as the hungry little men had filled up on corn griddle cakes and frog ham, they set off with the Teenie Weenie cart, pulled by Skippy, the chipmunk. They drove to a beech tree not far from the Teenie Weenie village and began cutting off the smaller branches of a limb that had been broken by a high wind. The Turk and Gogo, who are experts with the Teenie Weenie crosscut saw, cut off the branches while other Teenie Weenies piled them into the cart. When the cart was loaded the Cowboy drove off to the village.

The cart was hardly out of sight when Nick, the red squirrel, suddenly appeared where the men were sawing. There was a serious look in his eyes and he quickly made the Teenie Weenie woodcutters understand that a couple of weasels were in the neighborhood. The little men gathered up their tools and hurried off toward the village, for weasels are very dangerous animals to such tiny people as Teenie Weenies.

"Don't say anything to Skippy about weasels until we have unhitched him," warned the Turk. "Skippy is very nervous about weasels and he's liable to get panicky, run off and bust up our cart."

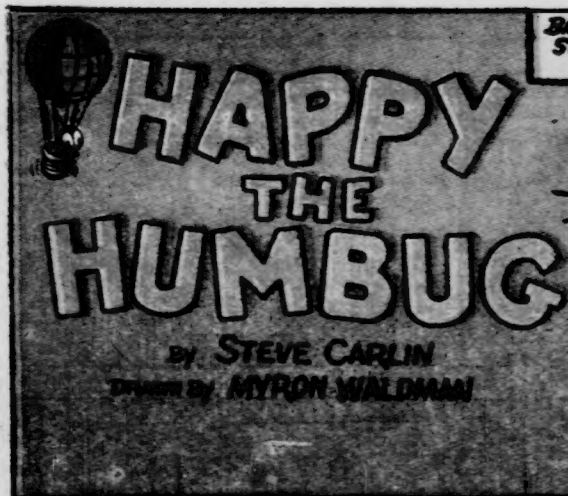

They met the cart on its way back for another load of wood. The Turk merely said they would cut no more wood today, but when they arrived at the village and Skippy had been unhitched, they gave the chipmunk the news. Skippy left in a hurry for his home while the men quickly split up the load of wood and piled it near the kitchen door.

The weasels hung about the village for several days and the Teenie Weenies seldom ventured out of their tiny houses. Luckily, they had enough wood to see them through the dangerous time. As soon as the gangsters left the neighborhood, the Old Soldier had the men out cutting wood again.
